Mesa State auctions college center contents

Grand Junction – Are you looking for a bargain? Do you need building materials such as windows, doors, ceiling tiles, lighting fixtures, bathroom fixtures, oak trim or tongue and groove paneling? How about assorted furniture including patio furniture? What about commercial kitchen equipment such as ranges or kettles?

On Saturday, February 7, at 10:00 am, those contents and more will be auctioned to the public at the W.W. Campbell College Center at North 12th Street and Elm Avenue.

“Our real goal in doing this is to give people the opportunity to get these very usable items if they need them and to make sure the items stay out of the landfill,” said Dana Nunn, college spokesperson.

The college center building is scheduled to be demolished later this month in preparation for construction of a new, two-story student center and three-level parking garage.

The auctioneer will be Buster Cattles. Anyone with questions about the items or the procedure at the auction may contact him at 970.245.4855.
