MSC Vice President of Community College Affairs resigns

Grand Junction – Marsha Arzy, Mesa State College Vice President of Community College Affairs, today announced to the faculty and staff of Western Colorado Community College that she is stepping down from her position effective March 1.

“I have enjoyed my tenure at the helm of WCCC but, for personal reasons, it is time for me to resign,” Arzy said. “The WCCC faculty and staff are committed to students and helping them succeed.”

Western Colorado Community College is the community college branch of Mesa State. Arzy began as vice president of community college affairs in July 2007.

“Marsha brings energy and enthusiasm to the things she does and we wish her well in whatever her next venture may be,” said Mesa State College President Tim Foster.
