Author of books about John Otto presents at Mesa State

Grand Junction – Alan Kania, a former seasonal park ranger at the Colorado National Monument and author, will give a presentation about the life and career of John Otto at Mesa State College on Wednesday, March 25, at 6:30 pm in room 111 of the new classroom building.

Kania has written extensively about Otto and the creation of the Colorado National Monument, which was compiled into “John Otto: Trials and Trails”. His book, “Colorado National Monument”, was published as part of the “Images of America” series.

He will be available to sign copies of his books after the talk. The program is sponsored by the MSC history honorary society, Phi Alpha Theta, in conjunction with the Colorado National Monument Association. The program is free and all are invited.
